You are free to take photos.

The Paiya Show involves diverse groups from different parts of the province/country – expect to see 12 groups. Performers decorated with head dress/ wig, plumes of bird of paradise, body ornaments and grass skirts, face decorations with clay, charcoal and other traditional paints.

An opportunity to see them from preparation to actual show on the main arena followed with mock fighting using shields, bows and arrows, traditional marriage - exchanging pigs, money and other valuables. The day ends with local cuisine called "Mumu" prepared in an underground oven covered with hot stones, leaves and veggies.
